1 According to the procedures of International GSM Association (GSMA), exchange of billing data between roaming partners may be carried out within 30 days of the last call made by a subscriber on the network of a roaming partner resulting into delay in roaming data collection, processing and billing charges. Taking into account the above specifics, we charge our customers for roaming as soon as our partners forward roaming details to us. As this may take up to 30 days, you may have outstanding roaming charges appearing on your account statements. It shall be the responsibility of the subscriber to check the usage of roaming services and make payment for the same.
